NSA Declassification/Release Instructions on File

A/F's memorandum on our CSM calls for the following reply:

a. Purely a matter of editorial usage and I disagree -- what is suggested could be accomplished simply by knocking out the sub-headings. This would not improve the paper, in my opinion.

b. We have used the M/AG material to the extent needed to present our story. This paper does not attempt to be the definitive study of the floods, but is nothing more or less than a CSM. If a more formal research paper is laid on, we would, of course, go into more detail.

c. Same comment as b. above.

d. Same comment. Also, it is apparent that A/F is getting [REDACTED] that we don't see. This brings up a sore point as I have been periodically complaining about the failure of the scanners to send us the material bearing on our interests. What would be the possibility of getting all the [REDACTED] automatically, since there isn't too much anyway?
